Two arrests were made Friday after a sales manager at a Hempstead car dealership allegedly pointed a gun at an employee. (7/29/16)

HEMPSTEAD - Two arrests were made Friday after a sales manager at a Hempstead car dealership allegedly pointed a gun at an employee.

Marc Jean said he was in a morning meeting at the dealership when the manager, who is white, pointed a gun at his face and allegedly said, "This should feel familiar." He eventually called police.

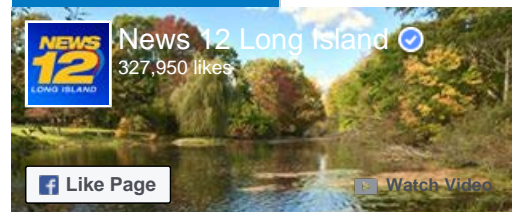

Hempstead police said the gun was not loaded and they do not believe the incident was racially motivated.
