

Nassau LONG ISLAND

Sheriff: Nassau jail inmate dies in custody; 6th this year

Updated September 7, 2016 12:54 PM

By Bridget Murphy bridget.murphy@newsday.com

Reprints + -

Nassau County jail inmate Michael Cullum died Monday, Sept. 5, 2016, marking the sixth custody fatality this year. The attorney for the Cullum family, Frederick K. Brewington, speaks out on behalf of the family on Sept. 6, 2016. (Credit: Howard Schnapp)

A Nassau County jail inmate died

Monday, marking the sixth custody fatality this year at a time when the

ADVERTISEMENT | ADVERTISE ON NEWSDAY

East Meadow facility's private medical provider has come under intense scrutiny after allegations of negligent care.

Sheriff Michael Sposato on Tuesday identified the inmate as Michael Cullum, 62, and said the preliminary indication was the man had died of heart failure.

Records show Cullum had been jailed on drug charges after his Aug. 26 arrest.

 LETTER
Letter: Mental-health care in Nassau jail was poor

 STORY
Jail medical provider: No pay violates contract

 STORY
Suit: Vendor denied inmates adequate care

The sheriff said Cullum came into the jail Aug. 27. The jail's embattled medical provider — Armor Correctional Health Services — sent the inmate to the hospital Friday, where he remained until his death, according to Sposato.

The sheriff said he didn't know the initial reason Cullum went to the hospital or enough about the specifics of his case to comment on the care Cullum received at the jail.

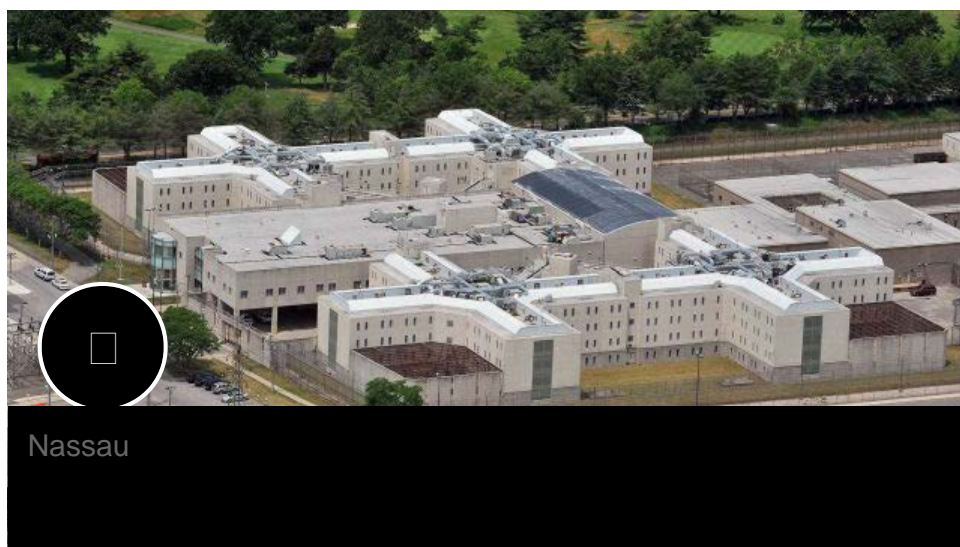

The state Commission of Correction said Tuesday it would investigate Cullum's death, as it does all jail custody fatalities.

"He should not be dead right now," Dorothy Cullum, 57, of Glen Cove said Tuesday of her brother. "If they gave him his medication like he should have had, he would still be with us right now.”

ADVERTISEMENT | ADVERTISE ON NEWSDAY

The family’s attorney, Frederick Brewington of Hempstead, said Cullum suffered from chronic health issues, but went for more than a week without “his lifesaving medication” and was “basically tortured by those that had him in captivity.”

Brewington said the Cullums were demanding a full investigation of the death, and added: “There’s no reason, even though someone is accused of a crime and placed in custody, that they should lose their lives because of lack of medical treatment.”

Tweets by @Newsday

Armor spokeswoman Yeleny Suarez said in a statement Tuesday the company had been notified an inmate who was admitted to Nassau University Medical Center on Friday had died.

But she said the company “cannot comment further on the patient’s health” due to a medical privacy law.

The state commission previously found Armor has provided inadequate care in connection with five inmate deaths since the company first won a Nassau contract in mid-2011.

New York Attorney General Eric T. Schneiderman sued Armor in July, saying the company has provided “woefully and dangerously inadequate health services” while continuing to collect millions of dollars in public money.

In addition, Schneiderman’s office has said four of the previous five inmate custody deaths in Nassau this year “raise serious concerns” about Armor’s care.

Armor has repeatedly defended its medical practices and has said it will fight Schneiderman’s lawsuit.

ADVERTISEMENT | ADVERTISE ON NEWSDAY

The company and the county also are fighting federal lawsuits from the families of four Nassau inmates who have died since 2011.

After Schneiderman’s lawsuit, Nassau Comptroller George Maragos said he wouldn’t pay Armor’s bills going forward until the company provided data showing it was meeting contract performance standards.

The comptroller so far has refused to pay Armor’s July and August bills of about $1 million each, and a Maragos spokeswoman said Tuesday those invoices and their accompanying data remain under review.

Armor recently said it wouldn’t bid to renew its contract, which ends in May, and also signaled it could pull out of the jail early if the county breaches its contract by not making payments.

Get the Newsday Now newsletter!

The best of Newsday every day in your inbox.

Click here to read or post comments

You May Like

Sponsored Links by Taboola

The Story Behind Your Last Name Will Surprise You

Ancestry

'Charlie's Angels' Actress Jaclyn Smith Is Totally Unrecognizable Today

Semesterz

Lily from AT&T - Who Is She Really?

Definition

13 Lemons You Need To Avoid In 2016

Forbes

The Net Worth of Tiffany Trump

Bankrate

She Had No Idea Why The Men Kept Cheering Her On!

Your Tailored News

More coverage

750 LI students spell out anti-bullying message

Strong's Marine adds marina, partnership

Police investigate lewd acts at preserve

Services

- Subscribe
- Manage my Newsday
- Today's paper
- Join us on Facebook
- Join us on Twitter
- Sign up for newsletters
- Get our Apps
- Newsday mobile

Our Network	News	Sports	Entertainment	Classifieds
News 12	Long Island	Giants	Celebrities	Jobs
am New York	Nassau	Jets	Movies	Cars
Newsday Cars	Suffolk	Knicks	TV	Real Estate
The Hometown Shopper	Education	Nets	Music	Yellow Pages
Newsday Homes	Crime	Islanders	Restaurants	More
CareerBuilder	Politics	Rangers	Theater	Crossword
Optimum	Towns	Yankees	Lifestyle	Weather
	NYC	Mets	Family

Newsday Connect	U.S. / World	High school	Shopping	Photos
News 12 Varsity	Business	Colleges	Pets	Videos
	Technology	Columns	Events	LI Life
	Commuting	Scores	Travel	Act 2
	History	Videos	Books	Lottery
	Data and Maps	Photo	Weekend Guide	RSS
	Traffic		Halloween	Archive
	Obituaries		Gift Guides

Site Map | Privacy Policy | Your ad choices | Terms of Service | Subscription Terms | Contact Newsday | Careers | Reprints & Permissions
Media Kit | Advertise with Newsday | Help

Copyright © 48784 Newsday. All rights reserved.